6.0 Definitions & Types of Discrimination

6.1 Definition of Discrimination

6.1.1 Discrimination is unequal or differential treatment which leads to one person being treated more or less favourably than others are, or would be, treated in the same or similar circumstances on the grounds of race, colour, nationality, ethnic origin, gender, marital status, disability, religion, age, sexual orientation. Discrimination may be direct or indirect.

6.2 Types of Discrimination

6.2.1 Direct Discrimination - This occurs when a person or a policy intentionally treats a person less favourably than another on the grounds of colour, nationality, ethnic origin, gender, marital status, disability, religion, age, or sexual orientation.

6.2.2 Indirect Discrimination - This is the application of a policy, criterion or practice to a person which the employer would apply to others but which is such that:

- It is detrimental to a considerably larger proportion of people from the group that the person the employer is applying it to represents;
- The employer cannot justify the need for the application of the policy on a neutral basis; and
- The person to whom the employer is applying it suffers detriment from the application of the policy.

Example: A requirement that all employees must be 6ft tall would indirectly discriminate against employees with an oriental ethnic origin, as they are less likely to be able to fulfil this requirement if that requirement is not justified by the position.

7.0 Unlawful Reasons for Discrimination

7.1 Gender and Marital Status - It is not permissible to treat a person less favourably on the grounds of their gender or the fact they are married. This applies to both men and women. Sexual harassment of men and women can be found to constitute sex discrimination. For example, asking a woman during an interview if she is planning to have any (more) children constitutes discrimination on the ground of gender.

- 7.2 Age - It is not permissible to treat a person less favourably because of their age. This applies to people of all ages. This does not currently apply to the calculation of redundancy payments.
- 7.3 Disability - It is not permissible to treat a disabled person less favourably than a non-disabled person. Reasonable adjustments must be made to give the disabled person as much access to the service and ability to be employed, trained, or promoted as a non-disabled person.
- 7.4 Race, Colour, Nationality and Ethnic Origin - It is not permissible to treat a person less favourably because of their race, the colour of their skin, their nationality or their ethnic origin.
- 7.5 Sexual Orientation - It is not permissible to treat a person less favourably because of their sexual orientation. For example, an employer cannot refuse to employ a person because s/he is homosexual, or transsexual.
- 7.6 Religion or Belief - It is not permissible to treat a person less favourably because of their religious beliefs or their religion.
- 7.7 Reasonable Adjustments - Minerva has a duty to make reasonable adjustments to facilitate the employment of a disabled person. These may include:
- Making adjustments to premises;
 - Re-allocating some or all of a disabled employee's duties;
 - Transferring a disabled employee to a role better suited to their disability;
 - Relocating a disabled employee to a more suitable office;
 - Giving a disabled employee time off work for medical treatment or rehabilitation;
 - Providing training or mentoring for a disabled employee;
 - Supplying or modifying equipment, instruction and training manuals for disabled employees; or
 - Any other adjustments that Minerva considers reasonable and necessary provided such adjustments are within the financial means.
 - If an employee has a disability and feels that any such adjustments could be made by Minerva, they should contact the Operations Director.
